

Health Insurance Program Expected To Cost 6 Billion

Stormy Hearings Ahead For Truman Proposals

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
Washington, April 25 (P)—Congress gets legislation today to carry out the Truman National Health Insurance program covering about 120,000,000 Americans at an annual cost sponsors estimated at around $6,000,000,000. A payroll tax would finance most of it.

The omnibus bill ready for introduction in the Senate and House also would carry out the rest of President Truman's far-reaching program designed to provide medical and hospital care on an unprecedented scale.

BILLS INTRODUCED

Washington, April 25 (P)—Legislation to carry out President Truman's far-reaching health program was introduced in Congress today.

The bill calls for payroll-tax insurance to provide medical, hospital and dental care for about 120,000,000 Americans at a sponsor-estimated cost of around $6,000,000,000 a year.

Other phases of the administration plan call for federal grants for medical education, for hospital construction, for public health services, for general medical and child life research, and for an experimental program of grants to farmers' health cooperatives.

Sponsors arranged to outline the bill at a news conference (10 a. m., EST) before putting the measure into the legislative mill.

More Payroll Tax
The controversial program, which Mr. Truman sketched in a message to Congress last week, covers weeks of committee hearings which probably will be stormy. Foes of the president's insurance plan have labelled it "socialized medicine" and already have introduced substitute programs in Congress.

No final action is expected until next year. Under the bill, Mr. Truman's insurance plan would not go into effect until July 1, 1951.

The 157-page administration measure was handed to a reporter in advance on condition that the cost of the various parts of the program, with the exception of the National Health Insurance plan, would not be disclosed until the measure had been presented to Congress.

The insurance program, designed to cover about 85 per cent of the nation's population, calls for a three per cent payroll tax, split between worker and employer, on income up to $4,000 a year.

For example, on income of that amount the worker would be taxed 1 1/2 per cent, or $72 a year. The employer would pay a like amount. If the worker earned only $2,400 a year, he would be taxed $36. So would the employer. The self-employed would pay the entire three per cent levy.

Ambassador Called Home From China

Washington, April 25. (P)—The state department said today J. Leighton Stuart, U. S. ambassador to China, has been ordered home for consultations.

Stuart is now in Communist-occupied Nanking, the former capital of Nationalist China.

Before the Communists moved in, the department said, Stuart was told that he should return after the safety of Americans in the lower Yangtze river valley is assured.

Stuart is to make the trip to Washington when he "considers it advisable."

STABBING FATAL

Detroit, (P)—Clarence Frasier, 43, (Negro) was stabbed to death Saturday night following a quarrel in a union hall. Police held another Negro for investigation.

Two Women Saved As Husbands Drown

Three Perish In Gale On Chesapeake Bay

Baltimore, April 25 (P)—Two women survivors lay in a Baltimore hospital today after watching their husbands and a five-year-old boy drown when their boat capsized in wind-whipped Chesapeake bay.

The boy was Charles Wrightson, nephew of Mrs. Inez Wrightson, 25, who told a rescuer she held him in her arms while he drowned.

Police at nearby Essex, Md., said the capsizing eight miles east of Baltimore yesterday also cost the lives of John Wrightson, 30, and Fred Moon, 21.

Moon's 20-year-old wife and Mrs. Wrightson were both rescued by boatmen from the Baltimore Yacht club.

One of them, Charles H. Stark said Mrs. Wrightson told him she and her husband clung to debris, supporting their nephew. The boy cried continually, Stark quoted the woman, and swallowed water until he collapsed. They then released him.

Mrs. Wrightson said her husband became afraid the debris—a cushion and a can—wouldn't hold both of them much longer, so he swam off. His jacket was later found nearby.

Leland Way of Reading, Pa., said he found Mrs. Moon clinging to the overturned boat. She told him the 14-foot vessel had been spun around by a wave and her husband lost his grasp.

A private seaplane pilot later reported seeing the bodies of Wrightson and Moon, but they were not recovered immediately because of the rough water. The boy's body still was missing.

Mrs. Wrightson and Mrs. Moon are being treated for shock and exposure.

Poland's Catholics Advised To Ignore Attacks On Priests

Warsaw, Poland, April 25 (P)—Poland's millions of Roman Catholics were told yesterday to ignore attacks on priests in the controlled-press of the Communist-led government.

A pastoral letter signed by Archbishop Stefan Wyszynski, primate of Poland, and all bishops was read in all churches telling parishioners to "refrain from reading anti-church organs and participating in anti-church or godless meetings."

In effect this would be a boycott by Catholics of the Polish press.

The strongly-worded letter deplored that "so many members of the clergy have lost their liberty" and said "we bishops have been unable to find out what they are accused of or to see them, but we have every confidence in their righteousness."

It advised Catholics to ignore "ridiculous" charges that the priests were enemies of the state and engaged in anti-state activities.

Secretary of Navy May Quit Because Of Carrier Dispute

Washington, April 25 (P)—John L. Sullivan's decision whether to resign as secretary of the navy appeared today to rest with President Truman.

Sullivan's intimates indicated he would seek a heart-to-heart talk with the chief executive on the navy's future role in defense strategy as the aftermath of work stoppage on the 65,000-ton super aircraft carrier "United States."

Sullivan himself said only that he had no comment on the decision pending study of Secretary of Defense Johnson's order Saturday discontinuing work on the $129,000,000 vessel.

Legislature Gets Set For Last Big Spurt At Lansing

Lansing, April 25 (P)—The Michigan Legislature now is getting down to the meat on its 1949 session.

It will adjourn in four weeks, and has been going leisurely for 16 weeks.

In the week ahead the brakes come off for certain because each chamber must clear its desk of its own bills, leaving the final weeks for consideration of measures initiated in the opposing chamber—and the budget.

Americans Prepare To Leave Shanghai

U. S. Navy Offers Haven Aboard Warships

Shanghai, April 25 (P)—United States citizens were told today to report immediately to the American Consulate here if they wished haven aboard U. S. naval ships at Shanghai.

Although the announcement by U. S. General John Cabot did not say so specifically, this was construed as the first step in the emergency evacuation of Americans from this great city which has come under threat of the Chinese civil war.

Americans were warned that if they board navy ships they might not be permitted to land again.

It was acknowledged this warning was made because of last week's incidents on the Yangtze where four British warships were shelled by Communist shore batteries which disregarded the neutral British flag and improvised white flags.

The U. S. Navy said the shelling of the British ships put an entirely different light on the situation and made it unwise to leave evacuation ships in vulnerable waters.

Detroit Beaten On Cleveland Spree

Cleveland, April 25 (P)—A window dresser for a large Detroit department store was on Mount Sinai hospital's critical list today.

Police theorized the man, Henry G. Laufman, 33, had been assaulted by a casual bar acquaintance. They said he was in grave danger of losing the sight of his right eye.

Laufman was found sitting on a curb in Gordon Park by a passing motorist yesterday morning. At first detectives thought he had been shot over the right eye but now believe he was brutally kicked, possibly stabbed.

The man was visiting his mother, Mrs. Catherine Laufman, over the weekend. He said he last recalled drinking early yesterday in a downtown "beat spot."

He had not been robbed.

Wearn Elfers Come Down Tuesday After Six Weeks In Air

Fullerton, Calif., April 25 (P)—Wearn Bill Barris and Dick Riedel have the endurance flying field to themselves today.

Bob Woodhouse and Woodrow Jungward were forced down at Yuma, Ariz., yesterday, only 74 hours and 21 minutes on their way toward cracking the Fullerton flies' mark.

Barris and Riedel plan to descend in their single-engine Sun-kist Lady at 11:44 a. m. tomorrow. At that time they will have been aloft 1,008 hours—six full weeks. The old mark, set 10 years ago, was 726 hours.

The House had more than 50 bills backed up on its calendar and leaders pried the list off committees. The Senate had only half as many on its desk—although there were hundreds in committee and the indications were that many Senate committees weren't hurrying to get them out at all.

The House's heavy course for the week was topped with debate today on a Senate-approved bill increasing old age assistance grants from $50 to $60 a week at the maximum.

The chamber also was ready to tackle the annual revision of fishing laws and far down the calendar, where it has lain for a week, was the controversial proposal to increase highway taxes.

The Senate had four highway "reform" bills at the top of its agenda, but its version of the increased road taxes still was in committee.

The upper House appeared likely to revise the highway bills substantially before it got through with them, but Senators were being subjected to heavy pressure from the road lobby to leave them alone.

Two measures to tighten control of stream pollution and expand the powers of the state stream control commission, both backed by conservation and sportsmen's groups, awaited their first debate in the Senate.

There seemed to be no storm clouds on the Senate horizon for a bill increasing workmen's compensation $3 and $5 a week and broadening the coverage of the law.

Both Houses scheduled meetings at 3 p. m. to get a head start on their business. Normally they meet at 8 p. m. after a weekend recess.

Lewis Frames New Mine Pay Demands

Shorter Working Hours To Be Accented

Washington, April 25. (P)—John L. Lewis met with top aides today to frame new soft coal contract demands that may set a 1949 bargaining pattern for other labor unions.

Lewis summoned his United Mine Workers' 200-man policy committee to decide on changes the union wants in the bituminous agreement due to expire June 30. Coal, like many other industries, has drifted into relative economic doldrums after the wartime and postwar booms.

Recognizing this, Lewis is expected to put more accent on requests for shorter working hours and higher miner security benefits than any boost in wages.

Miners now get a basic $14.05 daily wage for an eight-hour day. Out of the eight hours, however, only 6 1/2 are in productive work, because the miner is paid as if he had worked for one hour travel underground and a half-hour lunch period.

There has been speculation Lewis may ask for a seven-hour, or even a six-hour day, at the same $14.05 daily wage—a step designed to combat unemployment now that coal production has lessened. Lewis also wants some plan for balancing production between mines. Some miners now work only a day or two a week, others four or five.

FIRE ROUTS 16
Detroit, (P)—Fire that broke out on the third floor of a frame rooming house Sunday night routed 16 persons. No one was injured.

Reds Bypass Shanghai, Set Trap For 300,000

Fast Train Rams Truck; Ten Killed

Carthage, Tenn., April 25 (P)—A fast freight train rammed a truck crowded with Sunday worshippers at a crossing near here last night, killing 10 persons—nine in the one family—and seriously injuring another.

The truck burst into flames and was dragged some 100 yards down the track before the speeding Tennessee Central diesel could come to a halt.

Some of the dead were scattered along the tracks, while the rest were pinned in the cab of the truck.

All eleven were returning from church services to their homes at Hogan's Creek when the accident occurred at the Gordonsville-Lancaster road crossing about eight miles south of here.

Chicago Divorcee Named In Shooting

Augustana Aide Wounded; Jealousy Blamed

Chicago, April 25 (P)—A pretty science instructor and divorcee was charged yesterday with assault with intent to kill in the shooting of a male hospital aide, found abandoned in a lonely roadside ditch.

The charge was filed against Mrs. Judith Elkins, 30, after police Sgt. Harold Leeds said she had signed a statement admitting that she shot Jay L. Shaw, 26, four times. The officer said jealousy was the motive for the shooting.

Shaw, employed at Downey Veterans hospital, is in serious condition but expected to recover.

Shaw was quoted by police as saying the woman fired the four .38 caliber bullets into him Friday night when he got out of her car at her request to inspect the tires.

Shaw said he had gone to Augustana hospital that evening to keep a date with a student nurse there, Miss Leona Lindberg. Near the nurses' home, he said, he met Mrs. Elkins, science instructor at the hospital. Shaw added that Mrs. Elkins told him Miss Lindberg had gone to her home and that she offered to drive him there. "The shooting occurred," he told police, enroute to Miss Lindberg's home.

L. Maurice Green said the woman told him that Shaw had molested her. Mrs. Elkins was released last night on $5,000 bond, pending police court hearing Wednesday.

Auto Fumes Kill Grand Rapids Man, Nephew Unconscious

Grand Rapids, April 25 (P)—Samuel Rhodes, 40, of Grand Rapids, was found dead in his automobile near Lowell early today, apparently victim of fumes, sheriff's officers reported.

A nephew, Rhodes Barham, 30, also of Grand Rapids, was found unconscious in the car and was brought to the hospital here.

Deputy Andrew Van Duinen said apparently the two men had halted temporarily on highway M-91 near the Consumers Power Co. dam preparatory to going fishing.

Last-Minute Talks Halt Packard Strike

Detroit, April 25 (P)—Eleventh-hour peace talks that continued even after picket lines were set up prevented a shutdown of the big Packard Motor Car Co. plant early today.

Some 9,000 Packard workers who had been alerted for a strike starting at midnight Sunday were told by CIO United Auto Workers officers to report on their regular shifts.

Settlement of assorted differences between the company and the union was achieved by a group of representatives of both sides who got together at 11 p. m.—an hour after pickets had been called for the Packard plant.

Strike action was voted at a meeting of the Packard local yesterday afternoon. Local officers decided to go ahead with the walkout immediately, without instantly killed were: Jess Bennett, 50, driver; his wife, Mattie Bell Bennett, 45, and their sons, Douglas, 12, U. L. 10, and Melvin Earl, eight.

Mrs. Pauline Bennett Dickens, 24, daughter of the Bennetts; her husband, Paulie Dickens, 27, and their one-year-old daughter, Catherine.

W. E. (Coonie) Bennett, 49, Jess Bennett's brother.

Miss Linnie Gibbs, 17, died shortly after arriving at a hospital at nearby Lebanon.

Ruth Robinson, 18, the sole survivor, was hospitalized at Lebanon. Doctors said she suffered a broken pelvic bone.

An immediate investigation of the accident was being conducted by J. T. Waddell, general manager of the railroad.

State Safety Commissioner Sam Neal, who hurried to the scene, said the train ripped the ton and a half farm truck in two. He said it appeared five persons were seated in the cab and six on chairs set up in the back.

A son-in-law of the Bennetts', John Overstreet, told Commissioner Neal he had stopped his car at the crossing to let some passengers out when the truck came up behind him.

"I knew the train was coming," he told Neal. "I tried to wave the truck down, but my father-in-law pulled around me and went on in front of the train."

Walkout At Bendix Makes 12,000 Idle

Kaiser - Frazer Workers Faced With Layoff

South Bend, Ind., April 25 (P)—Union pickets established themselves as inspectors today as two major automobile manufacturers removed machinery from the strike-bound Bendix Aviation Corporation plant.

Members of Local 9, CIO United Automobile Workers, took stations on the loading dock at the company's products division plant to check equipment loaded into trucks.

The machinery, dies for Ford and General Motors cars, was to be moved from the plant at 10 a. m. The decision to remove the equipment was reached after a day-long conference yesterday between company and union representatives.

The plant has been closed since last Wednesday when its 7,500 workers walked out in accordance with a strike vote taken the week before.

The union objected to dismissal of 47 workers in the brake shoe division. The company alleged slowdowns in the department.

The strike already had idled 12,000 employees at the Nash-Kelvinator automobile plant at Kenosha, Wis. and 7,000 Kaiser-Frazer workers at Detroit are faced with a layoff if the deadlock continues.

Attorney General Will Oust Sigler

Roth's Staff Takes Over Macomb Bribery Case

Lansing, April 25. (P)—Attorney General Stephen J. Roth said today he would oust former Governor Kim Sigler as special prosecutor in the Ivan A. Johnston bribery case in Macomb county and that his office would take over the prosecution.

"This case is developing into a carnival and sideshow, not consistent with good law enforcement," Roth said.

He said he would immediately file an intervention in the case and "take over."

The attorney general said that under the law and supreme court decisions he has authority to take complete charge of any prosecution, superseding local officials.

Saturday, Sigler accepted the invitation of Circuit Judge Paul R. Cash of Alma, who is to hear the case, to act as special prosecutor in Macomb county to try Johnston, a former senator, on a charge of accepting a bribe while he was prosecutor.

Judge Cash's invitation to Sigler awakened statewide interest because of previous clashes between Johnston and Sigler when the latter was special prosecutor of the Ingham county graft jury.

Roth said that he would follow the formality of petitioning Judge Cash to set aside Sigler's appointment but that he had no doubt as to his legal authority to enforce such a request.

Ex-Convict Admits Bronx Strangling Of 8-Year-Old Boy

New York, April 25 (P)—A man released from prison less than three weeks ago has admitted the strangulation slaying of an eight-year-old boy, Bronx assistant district attorney Edward F. Breslin says.

The prisoner, John Saiu, 36, denied, however, that there was any sex perversion motive for the killing of Jack Goldsmith eleven days ago, the district attorney's office said yesterday. The medical examiner's office previously had reported that an autopsy showed the boy was the victim of a sex attack.

Saiu, who was booked on a homicide charge, was quoted as saying he killed the boy after an argument. The body of the youngster, who had been garroted with his own belt, was found in deserted Stairlight amusement park in the Bronx, where he had been on an Easter holiday fishing trip.

Slow Time Retained By Three Counties In Upper Peninsula

Detroit, April 25. (P)—There wasn't much change in time in Michigan last night.

Although part of the nation shifted to daylight saving time, the entire lower peninsula of Michigan remained on standard time, eastern variety.

But in the Upper Peninsula, three counties, Gogebic, Menominee and Ontonagon, continued on central time. They will be an hour behind the rest of the state.

In Iron county, two of the largest communities, Iron River and Crystal Falls, voted to go on fast time. But since they normally are on central time, they are even with the rest of the state.

It was the first time in years that such a degree of uniformity had prevailed.

City Of 5 Million Expected To Fall Without A Fight!

Communists Aim Lightning Blow At Hangchow

By FRED HAMPSON
Shanghai, April 25. (P)—Red armies aimed a lightning blow toward the sea at Hangchow today hoping to trap 300,000 Nationalist troops below Shanghai.

Other Communist forces, which took Nanking yesterday without effort, were reported just 19 miles from Shanghai. Residents of this, the world's fourth largest city, waited in a steady rain for the Reds. But none had showed up at dusk.

Shanghai seemingly was being bypassed. But none could say for sure. Even military spokesmen admitted they did not know just where the Red armies were.

Nanking Taken Over
The feeling grew among Shanghai's 5,000,000 inhabitants that the great Asiatic commercial center would go over to the Communists without a fight, just as Nanking did Sunday morning.

Seymour Topping, Associated Press correspondent in Nanking, reported the former Nationalist capital received the Communists quietly at 3:20 a. m. Sunday, Nanking time. One of the Communist soldiers' first tasks was to put out a fire that vandals had started in the judicial Yuan building. The building was a total loss.

The Communists took their stations before some foreign embassies and all government buildings and utilities in Nanking. No guards were placed before the American embassy, however.

During the afternoon three government planes tried to destroy gasoline and ammunition dumps at the Nanking airport. Communist spokesmen said they overshot their mark and their machinegun bullets injured some Nanking children at play.

A welcome to the Communists by Nanking residents was planned for later.

Railway Escape Cut
At the time Nanking fell, the Communist radio at Peiping announced the capture of Taiyuan, Shanxi province capital and industrial center 600 miles northwest of Nanking. Taiyuan had been under siege for months. The radio said all of the city's 150,000 defenders were wiped out. Pilots who flew over Taiyuan later reported it in flaming ruins.

Hopes For World Peace Bright, Says Moscow Delegate

Paris, April 25 (P)—V. P. Volgin, vice president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, told the Communist-led "world congress for peace" today that capitalism and Communism can live peacefully side by side.

Volgin said this in backing up a statement made to the Congress Saturday by O. John Rogge, former assistant U. S. attorney general. Rogge had told the Congress that the United States is not threatened by the Soviet Union and the Soviet Union is not threatened by the United States.

"This gives people a different outlook on the prospects for world peace," said Volgin, who heads the Soviet Academy's history and philosophy department. The Congress cheered him.

Volgin took exception, however, to Rogge's criticisms of the Soviet Union. Rogge drew boos and catcalls Saturday when he said there was insufficient freedom for political minorities in Russia.

Kansas Farmer, 65, Kills Two Officers, Then Dies In Fire

Abilene, Kas., April 25 (AP)—A 65-year-old farmer shot to death two officers and wounded three others persons at his home five miles southeast of here.

The farmer, Charles K. Rush, then perished in his burning house.

County Attorney John Rush said Rush killed Sheriff E. F. Davis, 38, and his deputy, Milton L. Davis, 58. The officers were brothers.

Rush said the farmer apparently went berserk early in the morning, wounded his housekeeper, Mrs. Mae Pettriss, and his brother-in-law, Mervin Franks, and then set afire two outbuildings.

Mrs. Pettriss, about 65, ran to a neighboring farm for aid. Franks said he "played dead" for about half an hour after being shot and fled from the house when it began to burn.

A neighbor, Fred Uhl, 30, was shot as he came to the Rush farm, attracted by the flames.

The sheriff and his deputy also were shot as they approached the house.

The county attorney said Rush poured gasoline around his two-story home, set it afire and perished in the flames.

VIRGINIA SEES TOURIST RUSH

Williamsburg Preening For 250th Year

Washington, D. C.—Williamsburg sees it coming—a record tourist year.

Virginia Garden Week in years past has often provided a gauge of how good Williamsburg's season would be. But far in advance of Garden Week, which runs from April 23 to 30 this year, hordes of visitors have burgeoned with the early spring.

Various special events will mark the 250th anniversary summer for Virginia Colony's restored capital. Major new restorations—the first since World War II interrupted this work—will be open to view. March has made it apparent, however, that even without the many such attractions, 1949 would be a banner year.

Jamestown, 1607, was the first permanent English settlement in America. Seven miles inland, a small outpost known as Middle Plantation was established about 1633 as Jamestown's buffer against Indian attack. In 1699 the outpost was renamed Williamsburg in honor of William III, and took over Jamestown's role as the seat of government of the Virginia Colony, notes the National Geographic Society.

Thrived in 18th Century
Virginia was then the largest, wealthiest, and most populous of the colonies. Its area included that of present day Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin. Colonial capital from 1699 to 1779, Williamsburg ranked with Boston, New York, and Philadelphia as a center of culture, commerce, and society.

Planters from outlying parts of the colony flocked to the capital when the courts or House of Burgesses were in session. Some owned town houses for use at such times. In the 1750-60 heyday which the restoration represents, 5,000 or more would crowd into the town of less than 2,000 residents. A dozen would find haven in one tavern bedroom.

Richmond became Virginia's capital in 1779, and Williamsburg lay forgotten by the outside world until 1927. Thus, many of its 300-odd colonial-period buildings were still standing when the Rockefeller-Goodwin program of restoration was undertaken.

Outstanding landmarks restored before the wartime interruption are the Governor's Palace, the Capitol, and Raleigh Tavern. Fires at various times had destroyed the originals so that only foundations remained, but reconstruction was made possible by reference documents preserved from the colonial period.

Colonial Spirit Pervades
In fair shape so that they could be repaired and stabilized without complete rebuilding were the Bruton Parish church, the Public Magazine, or "Powder Horn," the Public Gaol, and three early buildings of William and Mary College, founded in 1693.

A Guard House for the Powder Magazine now rapidly nears completion. Standing together on the south edge of the Market Square, the two will constitute a new exhibit unit on the Williamsburg scene. The Russell and Craig houses, near Raleigh Tavern, are other new restorations.

Looking years ahead, architects' drawings are complete on no less than 50 structures to be added to the scene. Looking backward to the 1930's, about 600 non-colonial buildings were removed from the restoration area so that the spirit of former times could pervade the community without affront by such anachronisms as neon lights and gasoline pumps.

In most buildings, interior furnishings are colonial, even to minute details. The whole scene has been rounded out with life and activity. Some 200 residents of today's Williamsburg community of 4,000 people daily don authentic costumes of 1750-60, and interpret for the visitors' benefit what the restoration represents.

RAILROADED—Bill Marrs, Jr., of Owinnequica, Nev., pets his dog Queenie after saving her and himself from death. Trapped on a trestle by an oncoming fast freight, Bill grabbed the dog and lay prone between the tracks as 11 cars of the 80-car train passed over them and groaned to a stop. Scrambling out from under, Bill fell 15 feet into a river bed, breaking his right arm. His head was grazed by the engine pilot.

Recluse Found Dead In Newhall Cabin

Brien notified the sheriff's office and Deputy Emil Johnson and Coroner Kevill Murphy investigated the death.

Blood Can Be Used To Save More Lives

Detroit—Human blood, which millions of Americans are donating to the Red Cross blood program, will be used in more ways to save more lives, thanks to a discovery reported at the meeting here of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

The discovery is a new way to separate, rapidly and effectively, the red cells of blood from the white cells and other parts of blood. It was reported by Drs. Edward S. Buckley, Jr., Marvin J. Powell and John G. Gibson, II, of Harvard Medical School.

The new method not only separates the red cells but does it so fast and so gently that they are not damaged in the process. And it makes possible the recovery of the even shorter-lived, more fragile white blood cells for study and possible use of their germ-fighting ability.

Street Paving Is Resumed Here

BLACKTOP PAVING of South 19th street, between Sixth and Ninth avenues, approved by the city council last week, marks the resumption of a street paving program in Escanaba that has been stymied by war and high costs for eight years. Another paving project approved by the council provides for the blacktopping of the alley south of Ludington street, between South 13th and South 14th streets.

In prewar years Escanaba embarked on an extensive street paving program, spurred by the WPA setup, with the result that a majority of local streets were surfaced with concrete at comparatively low cost to the property owner.

The abandonment of WPA, the intervention of World War II and postwar inflation blocked any paving extensions since 1941, except for widening of North First avenue which was done as a city project not under special assessment to speed the flow of heavy traffic along that route, and the blacktopping of South 14th street to the Lake Shore drive intersection.

Present costs of laying concrete streets are too high to encourage resumption of the program that was well advanced in the prewar years. Improvements in asphalt street construction, however, indicate that considerable work may be encouraged with the use of this material in the years ahead. The city engineering department reports that new blacktop material is well suited for street paving, particularly in residential areas where the traffic flow is comparatively light. The cost of this work also is well within the ability of property owners to pay by special assessments under an installment plan.

Credit Control Regulations Eased

FURTHER EASING of federal credit controls has been announced by the federal reserve board, another indication that inflationary pressures have subsided. It is the second time in a month and a half that the federal reserve board has eased credit restrictions.

The time limit for installment purchase payments has been extended to 24 months and the cash down payment required reduced to 10% on all goods and commodities except automobiles. Previously the time limit was 21 months and the down payment requirement was 15%. Down payment for automobiles continues to be one-third. Items costing less than $100 were removed entirely from credit controls.

The easing of credit controls is not simply an indication that the inflationary cycle has passed. It means, too, that additional inducements are necessary to move the production of the nation's factories and to keep employment at a high level. The acquisition of furniture, radios, refrigerators, ranges and hundreds of other household needs is possible for thousands of American families only through an installment purchase plan liberal enough to fit the earning power of these families.

The new regulations will prove another stimulant to business at a time when stimulation is needed.

The Gadgets Are Taking Over

EVERY now and then we get an uncomfortable feeling that the robots are after us. That is old-fogeyism, and silly to boot. People have probably been complaining about over-mechanization since the day when some speed-mad genius invented the wheel and started the whole thing rolling.

But we still get that feeling. The latest twinge came after reading about a new device that answers the phone for you when you are out. A wire recorder permits the callers to leave a message, and also informs them of the obvious fact that you aren't at home. We never did figure out what lifts the phone off the cradle and puts it back.

Speaking of telephones, there is now an electric brain that figures out phone bills. The folks who use it say it never overcharges. Occasionally charges you too little, though.

There is also an electric brain that plays chess. It is too deep for the merely human opponent, it will condescend to play gin rummy.

Chicagans with television sets can choose from a selection of movies, call the phone company and announce their choice—and there it is, right in the living room.

They're now boiling water, washing clothes and lighting pipes by sound waves. Highway cops are pinching speeders with the help of radar. More and more everyday activities are graduating to the "look-no-hands" category where things work in a way that is beyond the average comprehension.

No doubt this is all for the best. At least the people who invented all these things must have been trying to make life easier for their fellow man as well as make money for themselves. But we wonder what's going to happen to the subconscious lives of a lot of people as their everyday world grows more electronic and atomic.

There are a lot of normal, intelligent human beings who are baffled by any mechanism much more complicated than a screwdriver. They are mystified enough by things as they are today. We worry sometimes at what will happen to their egos in a future where invisible, incomprehensible forces wait on them hand and foot.

Truman Pushes Medical Insurance

PRESIDENT TRUMAN has presented a special message to congress in which he renewed his demand for compulsory medical insurance, to be paid for by deductions from paychecks of wage earners. The arguments that the president offered in the special message for compulsory insurance were a repetition of the arguments that he presented when congress convened in January. They were met then with coolness by a majority of the congress. The indications are that the attitude of the nation's lawmakers is still unchanged. There is no chance that the president's proposal will be acted upon at this session. Even the administration leaders concede this.

Advocates of compulsory medical insurance are centering their fire on the medical profession for opposing socialization of medicine, but in reality the strongest opposition is coming from the public. Obviously if there were general approval by the people of the proposal for compulsory medical insurance, opposition of the doctors could be only a minor obstacle. Congressmen who have asked their constituents how they feel about this issue have learned that considerably more persons are against compulsory insurance than those who favor it.

Voluntary insurance programs are gaining in popularity. Most companies writing this kind of insurance have gradually liberalized their benefits. A great variety of such policies are now available, so that an individual can purchase exactly what he wants to meet his particular needs. Under the government program, he would be required to take only what the bureaucrats decided he needs.

TAFT VS. TRUMAN

(Chicago Journal of Commerce)

Senator Taft is one of those who oppose the administration's compulsory health insurance program. His opposition is based—sensibly, this newspaper believes—on the premise that such a program is economically unsound and would lead inevitably to socialized medicine.

The Ohioan is keenly aware nevertheless of the intensely practical nature of politics. We intend no unkindness when we point out that the political competition in the senator's own state has become increasingly vocal of late.

To meet the tendencies of the day and the exigencies of the hour, therefore, Senator Taft puts forth a medical care plan of his own. He proposes that the federal government appropriate $1,200,000,000 to be distributed among the "needy" states on a grant-in-aid basis.

In this manner, Senator Taft would eliminate the danger of federal control of medicine. The facilities built with federal funds (on a matching basis) would be administered by the proper state authorities.

We have not seen the Taft proposal in cold type. It may be something entirely new in composition. Perhaps it has been found possible to write such a bill so that all federal influence is ruled out. Perhaps the language of such a bill can be so plain that there could be no thought of federal influence, if not actual dictation, in the matter of selecting hospital locations, etc.

Senator Taft may even be able to muster sufficient support for his measure to enact it as he conceives it. He may be able to foreclose all debate and keep out of the record any contrary opinion which courts could later interpret a stbe plain intent of congress.

But if the bill does contain all these safeguards against federal influence or domination, and if Mr. Taft does succeed in getting them adopted by congress as a whole, it will be the first time in the history of federal aid legislation.

The gentleman from Ohio being the practical politician he is, we doubt he has any hope of establishing such a precedent. And since there is not much reason to believe that the federal government can be made to distribute completely string-free money to deserving "poor" states, we are forced reluctantly to the conclusion that the difference between Mr. Truman's program and Mr. Taft's is one of degree rather than principle.

NOT INFALLIBLE?

(Cleveland Plain Dealer)

Recently Secretary of Agriculture Brannan startled a house agriculture subcommittee by admitting that "only God can tell whether we need marketing quotas" for corn. So far as we know, this is the first time that a government planner ever conceded that he did not know all the answers to economic problems or that he was not competent to suspend operation of the law of supply and demand to accomplish any purpose he had in mind.

ICC Bogs Down With Red Tape

BY PETER EDSON

HASHINGTON. (NEA)—If you are interested in what's the matter with the railroads of this country, one answer may be found by studying the make-up of the 11-man Interstate Commerce Commission.

It is generally admitted that four or five of the commissioners do all the work. One of the commissioners is blind. Two are 74 years old and one, just reappointed for a new six-year term, is 71. Only one commissioner is under 60. That is the newly confirmed Hugh W. Cross of Illinois, 53, who admits he knows practically nothing about the railroads.

Of the 11 commissioners, only five had any railroad or public utilities experience before they were appointed to ICC. Two came up through the ranks as ICC career men. One had railway labor backing and one was recommended by the ICC practitioners—the association of lawyers who plead cases before the commission. Three knew nothing about the railroads when first named to ICC.

These are the vital statistics on one of the oldest and most entrenched of the government regulatory agencies. ICC was first set up as a five-man body 62 years ago. It now occupies a seven story building full of files and figures, has 2200 employees and has asked for a budget of over $11,000 for next year.

It is so far behind on its docket that several years would be required to clean it up even if no new cases were filed. It takes months and sometimes years to handle a major case.

ENSNARED IN RED TAPE

What has happened here is that the ICC, like so many other government agencies, has become bogged down in its own red tape. It is more or less neglected. The railroad trade press follows its intricate rulings with professional self-interest. But no other government agency and neither the White House nor the congress has the slightest idea of what does on there, or why.

The result is that instead of the ICC regulating the railroads, the railroads pretty much get what they want out of the ICC. The commission needs a great shake-up and new blood. The great problem, of course, is in finding qualified talent that will work for $12,000 a year and tell $50,000 railroad presidents where to head in.

As proof of the fact that ICC is a forgotten agency, ask any of your friends—even railroaders—to name one or more of the honorable commissioners. By way of re-introduction, this is the way they line up. The first five do most of the work:

Chairman Charles D. Mahaffey, 65, Kansas Republican. He is a Rhodes scholar and Princeton professor of jurisprudence. He served as attorney for the old U. S. R. R. Commission, then went to ICC's Bureau of Finance, from which he was named commissioner by Hoover, in 1930.

J. Haden Aildredge, 62, Alabama Democrat. He made a study of freight rates for TVA which won him appointment to ICC.

William E. Lee, 67, Idaho Republican. He was an attorney for Northern Pacific before being elected to the Idaho supreme court.

Richard F. Mitchell, 60, Iowa Democrat. Former Iowa supreme court chief justice and Democratic national committeeman. He was referee in a 1947 adjustment board case, which he handled so well that he was recommended for ICC appointment by its practitioners.

BURDENED WITH OTHER WORK

J. Monroe Johnson, 71, South Carolina Democrat. He was colonel of an engineer regiment in the Spanish-American War and in the Rainbow division of World War I. He succeeded the late Joe Eastman as Office of Defense Transportation director, and that work has taken up most of his time.

Clyde B. Aitchison, 74, Oregon Republican. He drafted Oregon's railroad law and was general counsel for the old R. R. Evaluation commission. Known as "Father Time" he is supposed to be quite a singer and leads the ICC male chorus.

Carroll Miller, also 74, Virginia-born Pennsylvania Democrat, was a gas company official and consulting engineer.

Walter M. W. Spawen, 66, Texas Democrat. He has been a university professor, dean and president. He also served on the Texas Railroad Commission. He is now blind.

John L. Rogers, 60, Tennessee Republican. He was a railroad shopman, then an ICC locomotive inspector. He studied law on the side and became director of ICC's Bureau of Motor Carriers.

William J. Patterson, 69, North Dakota Independent. He took a correspondence course in air brakes and became an ICC safety inspector. He rose to become director of ICC's Safety division.

Hugh W. Cross, 53, Illinois Republican farmer, lawyer and politician, just appointed to succeed the late Commissioner George M. Barnard, Indiana Republican, for a term ending Dec. 31, 1950.

"ROO-muh-tiks." The word is dialectal, formed by adding "s" to the adjective rheumatic (roo-MAT-ik). Also dialectal is the word "rheumatiz." The ailment is properly called rheumatism.

From a news story about an operation performed on pitcher Ewell Blackwell, of the Cincinnati Reds: "It was an emergency operation for a congenial obstruction, said Dr. Turner." Of course Dr. Turner didn't say it. The word he used is congenital, "dating from birth," pronounced: kum-JEN-i-tl. "Congenial" in the news item may be a typographical error. On the other hand, confusion of congenial with congenital is not uncommon; so it may be that the reporter erred in quoting the doctor.

At any rate, pitcher Blackwell will tell you emphatically that the kidney obstruction from which he suffered was anything but "congenial."

Many persons also confuse the word arraigned and arranged. Not, "the prisoner was arranged." The correct word is arraigned, "brought before a court," pronounced uh-RAIND.

The Kiss of Judas

Good Evening

By Clint Dunathan

OLD CALICO—The recent publication in the Daily Press of a picture of an old gentleman with a beard, a mule and cart, and a couple of hound dogs, caused some comment from older residents of Escanaba. For the picture was that of "Old Calico," as he was known in an earlier day.

"Old Calico" was an itinerant salesman in Escanaba, and that's about all we know of him. But Alec Hammerberg of Danforth, who has been around these parts for nigh onto 70 years, tells us that "Old Calico" was French and at one time had a shop on First avenue north, then Thomas street. He was reputed to be wealthy and, according to Alec, had brought with him from France some family jewels of great value.

"Old man Calico! Well, I'll be doggoned," said Alec, gazing at the old picture. "That poor mule in the picture, she was fed to death. Somebody's playing a joke threw her so much grain she got the colic and died."

"Old Calico" himself died about twenty-five years ago, Alec recalled.

WEALTHY GERMAN—Mrs. Carl Spade has other information to offer on the subject of the old-time peddler, for many years a familiar sight along Escanaba streets.

She says that "Old Calico" is just "so-called," and that "somebody I hope to write a true life story of Old Leo. Old Leo was not old Calico to us. He was 'Old Broadcloth'."

"Once upon a time Leo was the wealthiest citizen of Berlin, Germany. He owned the largest and only sewing machine factory in Germany 70 years ago. He spoke perfect German and French."

Mrs. Spade says that her brother, Bill Weissert, could tell us more about Old Leo, Old Broadcloth, Old Calico or whatever his name was. She concludes: "It's a shame history tells so many lies."

CHANGING SCENE—Another contributor, who asks to remain anonymous, writes:

"Seeing the picture of 'Old Calico' in the Press reminded me quite forcibly of the many changes that have taken place in the last 20 years in this area."

"If 'Old Calico' were here to ask about the farmers who lived at different points between here and Bark River mail route road on M-35, neither he nor the persons he inquired of would know what the other was talking about. He might ask about the Blanks at Mosquito Ridge that being a point just south of Breezy Point. But he wouldn't know about Breezy Point because that was known only as Weisserts."

"Next, he might inquire about someone living near 'the old Whiskey Oak', a very familiar landmark to the oldsters—and with a story all its own. It still stands but that particular area is spoken of as Brotherton's cabins."

"He might ask about Peterson at the Store or Boarding House, known now as the 'Triangle.' What he knew as Missery Bay is now spoken of as Island View and Star Dune, and M-35 was Bay Shore Road. And the last of the familiar landmarks to go was the 'wheel of mailboxes', replaced by a single box for each family."

There are times when every aging editor inclines to think most of his readers are a cold and drab breed of humans. Yet, when the time comes, we generally find that readers respond to real calls to duty, nobility, alarm and defense.

We are enemies of war. We do not want to see any other anxiously. But we do not want to see our soil invaded. . . I do not understand how such a policy could be considered aggressive.—Premier Henri Queuille of France.

ENCOURAGING—So much for reminiscence about the old days, but a natural swing to another part of the county and the effort being made to preserve and maintain the old lighthouse at the southerly tip of Stonington Peninsula.

The residents of Stonington, interested in saving the lighthouse that has stood for 72 years, are cooperating with the U. S. Forest Service in plans to repair the old lighthouse—even if they must do the work themselves. The Bay de Noc township board voted $100 for materials and the people of the Stonington area say they are willing to do the painting and other work.

Their interest in the old lighthouse is understandable. When in commission its light flashed a warning to shipping that skirted the rocky shoals of the Point—a service that continued from the early days of the tall-masted schooners to the steel-hulled freighters. And the lighthouse grounds was a favorite place for Sunday picnics and outings for Stonington folk, as it remains to this day.

ATTENTION—When the Forest Service late last fall announced the possibility that the lighthouse might be sold and razed because no funds were available to maintain it, immediate local action was taken to prevent the loss of the historic old landmark.

It was the people of Stonington, however, who were most concerned, as you might expect. They made inquiries as to what they might do to help in the emergency and largely through their initiative it appears some cooperative plan will be worked out to preserve and maintain the structure for the future. The value of the lighthouse, historically speaking, will become more important as time passes.

New York, (P)—At 16, Hildegard Loretta Sell played the piano in a silent movie house in Milwaukee.

She was a plump, earnest, religious German girl, who hoped for something better.

Today, 27 years later, Hildegard is a svelte internationally known supper club entertainer who has perhaps kissed more bald pates in public than any lady in history.

She had dropped Sell from her name. But success hasn't made her lose the best qualities of Loretta Sell. She is still earnest, religious—and hoping for something better.

She retains a girlhood characteristic that most artists have who stay at the top in their field, an inexorable desire for self-progress.

"I still take piano lessons, because the piano is my life," she said.

"I have always wanted to play wonderfully well. Right now I'm doing the classics. I'm learning a concerto. I hope to be able to do it by 1951 with the San Francisco Symphony orchestra. They've invited me."

Devoting her spare time for two and a half years to learn a 42-page concerto perfectly doesn't seem like too much struggle to her. Struggle has made her a perfectionist.

She told me something of her life and hard times as we sat in the living room of her luxurious seven-room suite at the Plaza hotel. It is the kind of suite she used to see flash on the movie screen in the days when she thumped out background music.

Sex Looks Funny

Hildegard became one of the highest-priced supper club and radio entertainers after a dreary and low-paid apprenticeship. She worked in vaudeville, song-plugging, and a girl band. She tramped in London and Paris night spots.

The woman who helped work out her successful formula of wit, glamor, sentimentality—and special lighting effects—is Anna Sosenko, one of the shrewdest managers in show business.

One reason for Hilidy's popularity is her ability to kiss a middle-aged man on his bald pate and send him back to his table feeling like a colt. Or to give a teenage youngster a motherly peck on the cheek and make him feel years older.

Someone once said the secret of Hilidy's success was the fact she made "sex look funny."

"How else can sex look in a public place?" she asked.

The only unfulfilled ambition Hildegard has is to be a painter, "and I would be one if there were ten more hours in the day."

Hilidy is a bachelor girl. I asked her who was the most interesting man she had ever met. She ducked this but did say whom she would most like to be cast up on desert isle with.

"A doctor," she smiled. "Doctors know so many things besides medicine."

As long as I am not assigned by the government to duty elsewhere, I reiterate my intention to see this job through to the signing of a peace.—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, commenting on rumors of his impending resignation.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington. — Keep your eyes on the stubby little man with the gavel in his hand at Lake Success. Herbert V. Evatt, foreign minister of Australia and president of the U. N. General assembly, is the quiet center of the east-west cyclone. He is not afraid to make enemies for himself in his efforts to make peace.

Evatt used to be the trigger-man in counter-attacking the Soviets. Now he is leaning over backward to be fair, and bangs his gavel to protect the Russians as well as the Anglo-Saxons.

One day last week Evatt refused to let U. S. Ambassador Austin come to the defense of the Atlantic pact, after Soviet Gromyko had attacked it. Reason: Austin had just spoken on another subject, and Evatt made him wait his turn.

The Australian is a human dynamo, and sometimes a grouchy one. When he rides from the Drake hotel in Manhattan to Lake Success in the Cadillac limousine assigned to him, he hits up front with the chauffeur, writhing with impatience when they get stuck in crosstown traffic.

But he is even more impatient to get the chariots of peace out of the traffic jam. He thinks the big powers have got themselves worked up to a psychopathic state, wants to knock their heads together.

"Doc" Evatt is one of the few persons who know how close the "neutrals" came to lifting the Berlin blockade during the U. N. session at Paris last fall. At that time he got himself called unprintable names for meddling in the cold war.

But if the cold war is thawed out this spring, it will be partly thanks to the efforts of "intruders" like "Doc" Evatt, who hates war more than he hates the Soviets.

THE DIAPER LOBBY

You can now find registered lobbyists on Capitol Hill from the cradle to the grave.

Beginning at the cradle, the National Institute of Diaper Services of New York retains a lobbyist, Stanley Posner, at $5,000 a year. On the other end of life, William C. Henning of Columbus, Ohio, gets $6,000 for looking after the legislative interests of the American Cemetery association.

Even the family wash gets into the lobbying act through Richard A. Tilden of Washington, D. C., who represents clothes-pin manufacturers for $100 a day—when he works.

Lobbyists' earnings also vary widely, some working for nothing, while others haul down elaborate sums running into five and six figures. Thomas E. McGrath, address "General Delivery," Washington, D. C., is the self-appointed, non-paid agent for an outfit which he calls, "Taxpayers, U. S. A."

This rugged individualist informs congress in his registration form that he pays all his overhead out of his own pocket—including "thinking" expenses. Burton Clark of Washington, a "retired explorer and university professor," also is a non-paid spokesman for interests ambiguously described as "strictly personal."

BIG-TIME LOBBYISTS

However, most of the boys who have registered since the first congress convened last January get big folding money. The American Medical association employs several lobbyists with five-digit incomes, including Frank E. Wilson ($12,000 a year, plus $2,400 expenses), and the husband-and-wife firm of Clem Whitaker and Leone Baxter. Whitaker, hot-shot west coast publicist. Together they are paid $100,000 a year to unsell congress on national health insurance.

Gerard D. Reilly, ex-labor department solicitor and National Labor Relations Board member, makes over $50,000 a year lobbying against certain phases of labor legislation he used to champion. His clients include General Motors ($36,000), the printing industry of America ($4,800) and General Electric (salary to be revealed in a later report to congress.)

Other blue-chip lobbyists are Sherlock Davis, who gets $20,000 a year, plus a fancy expense account, from U. S. - Cuban sugar interests, and the New York public-relations firm of Bell, Jones and Taylor, which lobbies for a string of five-and-dime and variety stores.

Bell, Jones and Taylor is paid $10,000 a year by S. H. Kress and Co., $3,000 a year by McCrory stores, plus $100 a day by these and other clients, including the G. C. Murphy Co., for keeping tab on legislation affecting retail trade.

Tonight the chorus will be one of the featured numbers in a free variety show to be presented at the Escanaba junior high school as a cancer fund benefit.

Cab-Over-Engine Gives Stability In Helicopter

Danbury, Conn.—Cab-over-engine arrangement features a new helicopter now ready for production here by Doman Helicopters, Inc. This promotes stability in the air by permitting a better load distribution, and solves troublesome center-of-gravity problems. This new aircraft, already dubbed the Pelican because while lacking beauty it has ability to carry heavy loads, is designed primarily for agricultural insecticide dusting and spraying and for seeding extensive areas. However it is suitable for use for other cargo purposes and with its easily placed seats can carry six passengers in addition to the pilot.

The 245-horsepower Franklin engine used in the Pelican is located in the nose of the craft under the pilot's cabin. It is mounted at a 20-degree angle with its drive shaft extending to the pylon. The arrangement gives the pilot maximum visibility and makes engine-servicing easy. Removable cowling permits engine replacement as simple as in ordinary airplanes.

Allegan Farmer, 92, Has His Gravestone All Set For 1950

Allegan, Mich., (P)—At the age of 92, durable Leroy Irwin is still looking ahead.

So much so, in fact, that in nearby Hudson cemetery there stands a gravestone marked: "Leroy E. Irwin, 1856-1950."

This is not the aged Allegan farmer's stark notice to all who pass by that he intends to die in 1950. He isn't sure that he will. It is, instead, merely his way of telling the world that he is a man who does things for himself and who has little faith that posterity will pick up the loose ends.

"Don't matter if I go sooner or live a few years longer," he muses. "The stone's finished."

One of the reasons for Irwin's preparedness is that he has no relatives. His wife, Eva, died in 1947 after they had been married 69 years and the tombstone already covers her half of the grave.

Until that time the rugged old farmer had felt very few of the pangs of the years. But when the aches and pains settled on him, he decided he'd better look into the tombstone problem.

"Had a lot of bother getting it," he reported. "The monument company said it was an odd request. They had it started but they wouldn't finish it unless I paid half in advance."

Here Irwin rebelled. He believed in paying for something when he got it, not before.

"Wanted to see the stone first," he said. "Told 'em to keep their stone. Sell it to someone else."

This made the company pause, there being a limited demand for six-ton gravestones with the name Leroy Irwin already engraved thereon. So they delivered the monument complete as requested and Irwin paid for it.

Feeling Rather Poorly

In the nine decades of his personal history, Irwin has shown an unusual concern for the problem of graves being marked. Many years ago, when he was a young man, he drove a mule team into Indian territory in Oklahoma to find a headstone for his father's grave. He found a slab of rock in the shape of a rocking chair and hauled it back to the cemetery.

This monument, however, was never inscribed. And this, plus the fact that he can't locate his mother's grave, puts Irwin in the mood to rectify things. Therefore this year he hopes to put another stone beside his own inscribed with his parents' names. It will sort of bring the family together, he believes.

Because he's been feeling rather poorly of late, Irwin concedes calmly that he might not make

APPOINTMENT FOR 1950?—Leroy Irwin, 92-year-old Allegan farmer, doesn't believe in being caught unprepared, so he bought a tombstone for himself and had the dates of his life span, 1856-1950, marked on it. "Don't matter if I go sooner or live a few years longer," he says. "The stone's finished." (AP Photo) it to 1950 but despite his infirmities, he still can drive his car, do his cooking and read without glasses.

And whether or not he keeps his appointment for 1950, old Leroy Irwin is philosophical about it. The loose ends have already been picked up.

Mass By Television Doesn't Count, Says Revised Catechism

Washington, (P)—The first major revision of a Roman Catholic Catechism in the U. S. in over 60 years tells Catholics in effect, they cannot "attend" Sunday mass by merely watching one over television.

The new 426-page religious textbook, climax of 12 years research by Prelates and Catholic scholars known as the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, does not specifically mention television.

But it says a person must be "bodily present" at the place where mass is celebrated in order to fulfill his obligations to the church. The Confraternity in a separate press release linked this admonition to the question of television masses.

The National Catholic conference representing the church's hierarchy said the new textbook—a revised edition of the Baltimore Catechism used as a standard text for secondary schools and colleges in the United States since the 1880's—leaves the "basic doctrine unchanged."

Answers Modernized

But it pointed out that the familiar question-and-answer textbook now answers many modern-day questions not even thought of in the 1880's.

It either covers for the first time or alters former positions on such things as war, government, labor-management problems, mercy killings and Communism.

Of particular timely interest is one answer that backs up Archbishop Richard J. Cushing's stand in the Boston "heresy" dispute.

Boston College discharged four lay instructors after they objected that the college was guilty of "heresy" because it taught that non-Catholics could be saved.

Archbishop Cushing upheld the college and barred the Rev. Leonard Feeney from the altar for siding with the instructors.

The new textbook, without of course mentioning the Boston case, backs up the Archbishop by saying that in certain cases non-Catholics can be saved.

It says persons "who remain outside the Catholic church through no grave fault of their own and do not know it to be the true church, can be saved by making use of the graces which God gives them."

But it adds that persons who do "know that the Catholic church is the true church x x x and refuse to join it can not be saved."

The question of worker-employer relations and responsibilities is sharply revised.

Heavy Drinking Barred

The old Catechism said that "according to their agreements" servants or workmen must serve faithfully and honestly, and that employers must see they are kindly and fairly treated and "justly paid their wages at the proper time."

The new text says: "Employers who defraud laborers by not paying them a just living wage keep what belongs to others and are guilty of grave injustice not only to the employee, but also to the members of his family x x x employees who waste time during working hours, do careless work, or neglect to take reasonable care of the property of their employers violate the seventh commandment."

On other modern questions, the new Catechism says:

Euthanasia, or "mercy killings," are wrong no matter what the circumstances.

Citizens must not only vote and pay just taxes, but they must take up arms in the defense of their country in a "just war." This in effect upholds universal military training and the draft, an accompanying statement indicated.

It takes a middle-of-the-road stand on drink, forbidding only "excessive" drinking and eating.

Bigger Farms, Better Efficiency Show Trend In U. P. Agriculture

Today's "average" Upper Peninsula farmer lives more comfortably on a larger farm and efficiently produces more per unit than he did 10 years ago.

He is learning the three major principles that make for better farming — larger farms, higher production, better labor efficiency — and is applying them to open a new era in the history of Upper Peninsula agriculture.

He is proving that an area once indicted as "worthless" for farming is now supporting approximately 13,000 farms — with the crop land acreage increasing by approximately 10,000 acres each year.

By following good and efficient methods he is successful. He adds to the cropland acreage by whole-scale clearing with bulldozers and he buys up and puts back into production the adjacent lands of his less efficient neighbor.

Production Going Up
This trend toward the bigger farm is strikingly indicated in farm census figures—about 16,000 farms in 1935 compared with 13,000 ten years later.

Russ Horwood, MSC extension supervisor in the Upper Peninsula; D. L. Clananan, crops specialist; Roy Skog, forestry specialist; Norman Reath, specialist in vegetable gardening; Art Wolcott, agronomist at Chatham station, and representatives of home economics and 4-H Club agreed in recent conference in Escanaba that Upper Peninsula farming today shows many indications of advancement.

Dairying and potato growing, the two major Upper Peninsula projects, have shown continuous growth and expansion. With better methods, production has increased in amount and quality.

For example, the average increase in potato yields since 1929 is 40 bushels an acre, and in some areas the increase has been as high as 75 bushels an acre average. For certain districts, such as Delta county, potato production has boomed into all-time high record yields for Michigan.

More efficiency
Dairy herd owners through Dairy Herd Improvement associations have attained "more production per unit", boosting the DHIA average up to 350 pounds of butterfat compared with the state average of 266 pounds.

More farmers are learning to use labor saving devices. The mechanized farm is the more efficient farm, for the man-hours of labor are utilized more efficiently. In most Upper Peninsula farming communities there is no lack of electric power supply and in some counties, such as Delta, 95 per cent of the farms have electric service.

Still lacking is adequate telephone service in most rural sections of the Upper Peninsula. Better phone service would increase efficiency in many ways—provide that quick communication that can summon help in repairing machinery, treating an ailing cow, or bring the inseminator for artificial breeding. This solution of phone service extension problems is on the "must" list in many areas.

Although the "average" Upper Peninsula farm is larger, there are many successful small farmers who are finding new opportunities for profit in growing small fruits and vegetables.

The Local Market
The Upper Peninsula does not produce enough fruits and vegetables to supply its own needs. They are shipped in from out-state and must be sold at comparatively higher prices because of shipping costs. To meet this competition local growers are being encouraged to produce more for the local market.

During the tourist season the demand is good. Poultry raisers are cashing in on this market by starting hatching early and timing chickens to reach the market at the peak of the season.

The small acreage farmer will find a good crop in fruits such as strawberries and raspberries, particularly adapted to U. P. climate in lettuce, cabbage, beans and other vegetables depending upon soil conditions.

Cold storage facilities are increasing and would be put to greater use if more local fruits and vegetables were produced; while in some localities canning companies are offering an opportunity to produce beans and other vegetables under contract. An example of the latter is the Coleman Canning company's plant now under construction at Gladstone.

Conserve The Soil
Up in Houghton county there is a strawberry growers' association that produces up to 10,000 cases of late season berries that find a favorable place on the market when other strawberries are scarce. The price at that time is almost as good as at the beginning of the season.

And over at Newberry, in Luce county, Louis Romance is making a success of his lettuce production on a big scale—with 150 acres planted each year. This is not the project for a small-acreage farmer, but Romance's success shows the possibility of success in truck gardening on a commercial scale where soil and other conditions are right. Romance trucks his produce to the Detroit and Grand Rapids markets.

Upper Peninsula farmers are learning that none too fertile soils will respond well to good soil conservation practices. A factor in building up the soil has been potato production, with its rotation of crops and application of fertilizers. Barley yields have gone up an average of five bushels an acre since 1929, and other grains and hay have also increased in yield per acre.

The Better Living
Because about three-quarter million acres of woodlands are owned by Upper Peninsula farmers, the harvesting of timber crops is being encouraged.

Through extension forestry the farmer, and other owners of forest lands, are being helped to realize that they should get as much income as they can from their timber lands. The farm woodland provides supplemental income for work done at times when the farmer is not busy at other chores. On many farms the woodlot is producing lower-cost farm building materials. By learning good cropping methods, such as selective cutting, the farmer's income from his woodland is increased.

The farmer and his family are living more comfortably and more graciously and more healthfully because of the farm wife's interest in her home economics club. This is another project offered through MSC extension service, inaugurated in the Upper Peninsula 30 years ago and now expanding rapidly in membership and scope. It now includes the urban as well as the rural community, for city as well as farm women are interested in the many phases of good homemaking. There are now over 300 home economics groups in the U. P. with a membership of about 5,000 women.

Through the 4-H Club program the farm boys and girls have the opportunity for learning through work projects and for social contacts that make farm life more enjoyable. The success of the 4-H program has carried it from the farm into community life, bringing better understanding between residents of the farm and the city.

Today in the Upper Peninsula the farmer and his wife and family are producing more and better than ever before and doing it more efficiently. He is building a firm foundation for the future of the Upper Peninsula's agriculture.

Spring Muskrat Trapping Called Menace To Ducks

Orono, Maine.—Spring trapping for muskrat is a menace to the duck population, warns Jay S. Gashwiler of the Maine Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit, in the Journal of Wildlife Management.

Traps set for muskrat very often catch ducks instead—and this at the very beginning of the breeding season, when the females are due to bring off their broods in a short time. Total number of ducks thus killed is estimated at close to 2,000 in one year in the state of Maine alone. Since there are 21 other states and Canadian provinces in which similar losses can occur, the total muskrat-trap mortality among breeding ducks is apparently quite serious.

There were 182,500,000 life insurance policies owned in the United States at the end of 1947.

ORE OUTLOOK STILL BRIGHT

Lake Superior Region Is Hopeful

Iron River—Mining of iron ore in the Lake Superior Region, including the Iron River district, is not in a state of rapid decline, says Hugh M. Roberts, Duluth geologist.

Two billion tons of ore have been shipped from Minnesota, Wisconsin and Upper Michigan ranges since the discovery of ore, in 1854, in Marquette county, Roberts said.

In all probability, he continued, a like amount of direct-shipping ore and concentrates made by methods now in use will be shipped in the next 30 or 40 years. This does not include, he explained, concentrates to be made by the fine grinding of taconites.

It may be concluded, therefore, he went on, that the region's iron ore areas are not in a state of rapid decline, which recent discussions on the subject might indicate.

Roberts also said that diamond drill explorations in the White Pine area near Ontonagon indicate continued production from Michigan copper mines.

Mining men here say that drilling operations by practically every operator in the district also point to the fact that iron ore production will be maintained for many years.

VARIETY SHOW HERE SATURDAY

Net Proceeds For Club Sight Saving Fund

The Escanaba Lions club reports a brisk ticket sale for the professional show, Varieties of 1949, which will be presented here Saturday night under sponsorship of the sight saving committee of the club. Net proceeds will be used to provide glasses for indigent children and for carrying on other phases of the club's sight saving program.

The club's expenditures for sight saving during the past year was $349.08. Of this total, $241.50 was for 17 pairs of glasses and for two refractions. The remaining $107.58 was for the purchase of a vision test instrument that the club donated to the Escanaba public schools.

A sharp increase in the number of vision cases to be financed by the club in the year ahead is anticipated, because of the modern equipment now available to determine the vision deficiencies of school students. This increase in fact has been apparent in the past two months.

The Varieties of 1949 is a fully professional production of 10 acts, including 35 people and featuring fine music. The show has received very favorable comment in other cities of the Upper Peninsula where it has played the past week.

The program includes a variety of acts that have proved very popular in night clubs, theaters, radio shows, etc., throughout the country.

GOVERNMENT PRESCRIPTION
Compulsory Sickness Insurance

This prescription can make a healthy nation sick

There is talk of giving the people more "security" by extending government control to medical care. It is nice talk—but it doesn't make for a nice future. Europe is full of tragic examples of people running to the government for security, only to find that the more it got, the sicker the nation became. Your doctor has nothing to lose from compulsory health insurance; he would have a guaranteed practice with guaranteed pay—and all the prerogatives of a bureaucratic life. But how about YOU—you, the person who pays with a shrunken take-home wage? Will you be better off—or worse? Get under all this "nice" talk, and see where you end up. Let your doctor give you the real facts about government controlled medicine so that you can weigh the ugly side of it as well as the sugar-coated promises.

Bill Nestle Knows His Michigan Jails

By ROBERT E. VOGES

Lansing, (AP)—There's nothing William H. (Bill) Nestle enjoys more than getting together with some well-travelled ex-convict to jaw over the different jails they've both visited.

At such gab sessions, Nestle, a graying, fatherly-looking man, will become even more indignant than the jailbird as he recalls the poor plumbing in one lockup or the cold coffee in another.

Although he has never been a jail inmate, Nestle is Michigan's foremost authority on living conditions behind the bars because of his post as jail inspector for the State Corrections department.

Yearly, he manages to visit all of Michigan's 82 county jails and nearly every one of the some 120 city, village and township lockups. Nestle is the spearhead of the state's campaign to make every Michigan jail a fit place for any person to suffer confinement.

"I don't want to make every 'bad' a prisoner," he explained, "but a prisoner is still a human being—and has the right to be treated as such. We all have the responsibility of seeing that every jail in the state is secure, safe and sanitary and provides the proper segregation."

Through diplomacy, appeals to local authorities and occasionally resorting to the courts, Nestle hopes to eventually bring every Michigan jail up to standard.

"Right now, Michigan's jails are better than the country's average," he said. "But the average Michigan jail is 55 years old. There are bound to be conditions that need correcting. Improper sanitation is the worst problem. Some have fire hazards. And I've seen a few that any enterprising prisoner could dig his way out of with a pen knife."

Nestle lists an even dozen county jails as "excellent." Deserving gold stars, in his estimation, are the Wayne county jail in Detroit, Montcalm county at Stanton, Washtenaw county at Ann Arbor, Kalamazoo county at Kalamazoo, Iron county at Crystal Falls, Ingham county at Mason, Oakland county at Pontiac, Genesee county at Flint, Saginaw county at Saginaw, Bay county at Bay City, Gratiot county at Ithaca and Monroe county at Monroe.

All of the other 70 existing county jails, he thinks, could use some improvement. The Roscommon county jail is closed and Midland county prisoners are taken to Bay City.

A Gratiot county sheriff for 12 years, he's proud that the county jail there rates among his top 12.

The state's oldest jail still in use, according to Nestle, is the more than 100-year old building at Lapeer. "But it's in surprisingly good shape," he said. "The building is clean and the plumbing has been kept up to date. It shows what can be done when the county is willing to spend a little money."

Last year 53,074 persons spent 566,350 days in county and local jails. The average stay was slightly less than 10 days.

Nestle points out that a lot of these were picked up for traffic violations or other minor offenses or were material witnesses. More than 4,000 were women.

"Most of the people who pay the taxes to support our jails have never spent a night in one," he said. "It might do them some good. They don't realize that fate might land any of us behind bars at any time."

Nestle told of one county supervisor who kept growling at the expense of improvements for the local jail. "Too good for those criminals," was his complaint. A week later, Nestle said, the supervisor's son was jailed for some minor escapade.

Fire Traps Cited

When Nestle finds jail conditions not up to par, he tries to talk the county board of supervisors or local authorities into taking action. If there is overmuch delay or if pressure is needed, he turns the report over to the State Attorney General. Acting through local circuit courts, the attorney general can close the jail.

At present, such cases are pending against the Emmet county jail at Petoskey, Isabella county jail at Mt. Pleasant and Schoolcraft jail at Manistique. Unsanitary conditions and fire hazards are the main complaints.

Legal action also is pending against the Huron county jail at Bad Axe, Tuscola county jail at Caro, Antrim county jail at Belleville and Alpena county jail at Alpena. New buildings are planned for the Clinton county jail at St. Johns and the Berrien county jail at St. Joseph as the result of nudging from the state.

Nestle currently also is working with authorities at Grand Rapids to improve jail conditions there. No crackdown is planned, however, because the cooperation of local officials has been excellent. "The building is old," he said. "But the supervision is excellent. We're gradually improving conditions."

One of the poorest lockups in the state, Nestle said, is the Lansing city jail, within the shadow of the capitol. The attorney general is handling that case now.

"We keep hammering away at them though," Nestle said. "Within 10 years Michigan should have the best county and local jail system in the country."

The period in which the cave man lived is most often called the Mousterian, taken from a cave in southern France, Le Moustier, where remains of the race were found.

Grange Promotes Farm Vacations

New York, N. Y., (AP)—An unusual plan for the coming summer months which will increase farm incomes and broaden understandings between urban and rural people has been presented by Grange organizations to members in 12 states from Maine to Virginia.

The plan encourages farmers who have two or more spare rooms to take in city vacationers on a paying basis, and thus develop a new type of resort business in rural areas.

The project was originated by William P. Wolfe, New York representative.

The bullet passed through the sow and hit a boar which had just come up behind her, says Winkelmann.

JUNGLE FAMILY

BAGGED. Mrs. Edith Siemel brought this jaguar down with bow and arrow just before he might have killed her pet hunting dog.

In 1940, Edith Bray, a young Philadelphia socialite, married Sasha Siemel, a professional tiger hunter, and went to live with him in the jungles of the Matto Grosso in Brazil. Her honeymoon was spent on the Upper Paraguay river, 2,000 miles from Rio. In the nine years since then, Mrs. Siemel has reared three children in the jungle; made a home on 40-foot houseboat which her husband designed and built, and gone deep into the wilds to the villages of the Bororo and Yanaygua Indians. Mrs. Siemel has cooked with fat from alligator tails, used a huge empty ant hill for an outdoor oven, given her family peccary steaks and monkey haunches for meals, gone to bed at night with jaguars roaring around her in the jungle. In the 30 years he has spent in the jungle, Mr. Siemel has killed hundreds of jaguars. He has made his living by organizing hunting expeditions and by killing the jaguars that prey on cattlemen's herds. He has also captured live animals for zoos. Pictured here are the Siemels in the Brazilian jungle. Some of the photographs appear in their latest book, "Jungle Wife." (Doubleday & Co.)

"ANIMAL FRIENDS."

RUN ON BANK. Alligators sunthemselves on the river bank. But they were not good playmates for children.

GIANT ANTEATER goes snooping through the jungle grass looking for ants which it sucks up with its mouth.

JUNGLE INTERLUDE. Sasha and Edith Siemel, holding baby Dora, relax outside their grass hut in Descalvados region.

CAMP LIFE. Outside the Siemels' hut, natives of the area roast a jaguar, "which tastes just like pork."

PETS. Bright plumaged macaws entertaining the Siemel children, Dora and Sandra, while Mrs. Siemel watches.

MOVING DAY. The hunting dogs, house furnishings, the crib are loaded onto house boat preparatory to moving up stream.

JOURNEY'S END. After long, hazardous trip up the Miranda river, the Siemels' houseboat, River Gypsy, is moored to a new site in the jungle. Inside boat, was a sewing machine, kerosene stove and upright piano.

MAN IS SLUGGED
ROBBED OF $190Victim Gets Empty Wallet Back With Thanks

John Klein 67, of Minneapolis, cook for a Soo Line bridge crew, was slugged and robbed of $190.00 while crossing a trail west of Delta and west of 15th street, which leads to the work car about 12:30 Sunday morning.

Klein told officers he met the man on the pathway and he struck him over head with what appeared to be a piece of pipe. He struck a second time and Klein partially fended the blow with his hand.

Dazed but not knocked out, Klein complied with the request to hand over his wallet which was returned to him after it had been stripped of the money. The hold-up man even thanked him.

The aged man made his way to the work car where one of the bridge gang dressed his injuries. He had a fair sized gash in his head and his left hand was bruised.

Klein was able to provide officers with a fair general description of his assailant.

City and state police are working on the case.

New Turbine Uses
Low Grade Fuels

Washington—A high-pressure, high-temperature turbine run by hot air instead of combustion gases, as in the case of the now familiar gas turbine, is the engineering advance offered by John S. Haverstick of Kingwood Twp., N. J., for U. S. patent 2,464,861. The patent is assigned to the De Laval Steam Turbine Company.

In the ordinary gas turbine, the inventor states, air is first compressed, then used in the burning of fuel, and the combustion gases put through the turbine. This has the disadvantage of exposing the turbine parts to corrosion at high temperatures, which virtually necessitates the use of high-grade, expensive fuels.

In this new hot-air turbine, the air is first compressed and raised to a high temperature in a heat exchanger, then put through the power-production phase in a series of turbines, and the exhaust air finally used for the combustion of cheaper fuel (which may even be lump coal) to run the heat exchanger. Since nothing but hot, dry air is in contact with the turbine parts the problem of corrosion is practically eliminated.

The Tschida Company brought an action in the State District Court in St. Paul before Judge Kenneth G. Brill for $3700 for damages to their equipment.

Lions to Play NFL Foes in Exhibitions

Detroit, April 25 (AP)—The Detroit Lions will play pre-season exhibition games against other national football league clubs this fall.

Already scheduled is a game in Denver, Colo., against the Washington Redskins, late in August. Other games will be called later.

Cubs Tripped By Cards, 5-4

St. Louis, April 25 (AP)—Joe Garagiola slammed the ball against the right-center field wall to bring in Enos Slaughter for a St. Louis Cardinal ninth inning 5 to 4 victory over the Chicago Cubs yesterday.

Chicago, April 25 (AP)—Of course, the season hasn't even worked up a lather yet. . . . But have you noticed those Chicago White Sox?

Unaccustomed as they are to being in the first division, they are today tied with the Philadelphia Athletics for second place. The 1948 tailend club of the American league, crushed beneath 101 defeats, has a five game winning streak.

During all of last season the Sox never looked that much victorious together. They lost six of their first seven contests, whereas now they have won five of their first seven.

Anytime the White Sox can string five wins, although four come from sweeping a series with the St. Louis Browns, it's news in these parts.

Jack Onslow, 59-year-old freshman coach in the Sox' 1949 rotation, says his team is winning because "we have great spirit, plenty of hustle and good pitching so far."

Onslow, known as a whip-cracking skipper, also has a less wooden reason for the club's early success.

"We were not especially pleased to be picked by most experts to finish last again," he observes. "We have a lot of young fellows here, but they are carrying over veterans on this team and they weren't happy to be counted out before they start."

They have had some timely hitting—led by 41-year-old Luke Appling with a .320—and exceptional pitching in their early spurt. The ageless Appling powered his first homer since 1947 in the Sox victory over the Browns Saturday, and that is typical of the surprising tempo the club now is displaying.

Michigan Golfers Qualify For PGA

Detroit, April 25 (AP)—Some 200 Michigan professional golfers were scheduled to tee off Monday in the Michigan qualifying rounds of the National PGA championships.

At stake in the 36 hole battles will be qualifying berths in the National PGA tournament to be held in Richmond, Va., next month. Favorite in the scramble is Horton Smith, state PGA champion.

Trucks Tries Stuff Today

Chicago, April 25 (AP)—Deprived of a chance to try his stuff against the world champion Cleveland Indians, Virgil Trucks of the Detroit Tigers was set today to fire away at Chicago.

The Tigers' final contest at Cleveland—rubber game of a series of three—was called off yesterday because of rain and cold.

So the Bengals moved over to Chicago to see if the spell they cast over the White Sox in the first series of the new season still holds. Due almost entirely to Rookie Johnny Groth's big bat, Detroit took two out of three games from the Chisox in Briggs Stadium last week.

Then they split a pair with the Indians, and go into their current Chicago series even with the world champs. Each squad has won three games and lost two, and each is a game and a half behind the league-leading New York Yankees.

Neither Detroit nor Cleveland club officials relished calling off yesterday's fray.

Tiger manager Red Rolfe said the grey, damp and cold weather in Cleveland made it "a perfect day for Trucks."

"They would have had trouble with Virgil's fast stuff," Rolfe added.

Cleveland owner Bill Veeck had to break a long-standing precedent when he decided to postpone the game. It has been the Indians' policy to play in poor weather if at all possible, and during 1948 not a single game was put off there because of the weather.

Trucks posted a 5 to 2 win over Chicago when he faced the Sox last week. Today his opponent is Howard Judson, a right-hander.

The Cincinnati Reds fell into a second place tie with the New York Giants when they divided a twin bill with the Pirates in Pittsburgh. The Reds won the first game, 3-2, in 10 innings with Charley Kress singling home Johnny Wyrostek with the winning run. Eddie Bockman drove in all Pittsburgh's runs with a pair of home runs in the Pirates' 3-1 second game victory.

Sheldon Jones went all the way, scattering seven hits, as the Giants defeated the Boston Braves 6-2. Bobby Thomson provided the winning margin in the first inning with a three-run homer, off Vern Bickford.

Joe Garagiola doubled home Enos Slaughter with the run that gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 5-4 triumph over the Chicago Cubs. The blow came in the last half of the ninth with two out.

The scheduled game between Cleveland and Detroit was postponed by rain and cold weather.

St. Louis, April 25 (AP)—Detroit's bid for the 1956 Olympic games has been termed the "strongest from that part of the world."

The statement came from Lord Aberdare, a British delegate who said the games "will probably not be seen in Europe for the next 15 years."

In 1956, 1960 and 1964 games would be held in North America, South America and Australia, he said.

He would not comment, however, on which of the three continents would be most likely to get the 1956 games. But when asked if Detroit's bid seemed strongest, he said, "from that part of the world, yes."

Other top bidders were Melbourne, Australia; Mexico City and Buenos Aires.

Working sessions of the week-long meeting were scheduled to begin today, following a press conference.

Avery Brundage, vice-president of the International Olympic committee, said yesterday after the opening ceremonies that it was likely that Japan would be readmitted into Olympic competition, but that the question of German participation probably would have to wait for the formation of a German government.

Eels in the vicinity of the West Indies grow to be seven feet long.

Manistique, April 25—Fifty-three candidates are out for track at Manistique high school, William J. Cook, track coach reports. Practice began about three weeks ago but up to the latter part of last week most of the time was spent in calisthenics and conditioning.

Among the lettermen who will be in the field again this year are Don Quick, mile; Dave Moreau and Howard Hartman, low hurdles; Don Lancour and Alf Radgens, pole vault and John P. Quick, high jump.

Little is known of the potential strength of newcomers on the squad although several are showing promise. Coach Cook says the team will have better balance this year than in several years past.

Meets in which the team will participate are: Soo Invitational—May 7. Great Lakes Conference meet at Manistique, May 14. Regional meet at Marquette, May 21.

All who qualify in the regional will participate in the U. P. finals at Escanaba, on May 28, with hopes that some may qualify for the relays at Marquette on May 30.

But - Oh, Those Surprising Sox!

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Hold off on those flowers—the patient is far from dead.

The patient, of course, is the Chicago White Sox, the club that was doomed by the experts to die of loneliness in the dreary confines of the American league basement.

Apparently the White Sox have different ideas on the subject. Judging from today's standings, the Sox not only are very much alive, but are making some of the other teams roll over and play dead.

The end of the first week of play finds the Sox tied with the Philadelphia Athletics for second place, only half a game behind the fast-moving New York Yankees.

They have won five and lost only two, all their victories coming in a row.

Splendid pitching by Bill Wright and Randy Gumpert yesterday enabled the White Sox to whip the St. Louis Browns twice, 2-1 and 4-0, giving them a sweep of the four-game series.

Wright needed the help of some swell relief pitching by Matt Surkont, Rochester draftee, and a two-run ninth inning rally by his mates to escape being charged with a 1-0 setback. Surkont, who worked the ninth, got the victory. Gumpert's performance was more glib-edged. He permitted only three singles and allowed no Brownie runner to pass second base.

The Athletics continued to fatten up at the expense of Washington pitchers, combining Sid Hudson and two relievers for 12 hits to whip the Senators 8-3. It marked the sixth straight loss for the Nats, who have not won since opening day.

Lou Brissie went the distance for the second time in a row, notching his second triumph on a five hit day.

The Boston Red Sox continued to flounder around, dropping their fourth game in six starts, when the Yankees came from behind to defeat them, 9-4. Trailing 4-0, the Bronx Bombers scored six runs in the eighth, and added three more in the ninth to salt away their fifth triumph against only one loss.

Brooklyn's scrappy Dodgers retained their half-game margin in the National league race, splitting a doubleheader with the Phillies in Philadelphia. The Phils won the opener, 7-4, and the Dodgers took the second, 6-5. Home runs by Richie Ashburn, Stan Lopata and Eddie Miller highlighted the Phils' victory.

George Mathison, of Gladstone, league secretary, reports the following regulations governing player roster: They're wide open during the first three games, but the roster (18 player maximum) submitted after the first three games cannot be changed until after the seventh game or at the end of the first half. The new roster for the second half then cannot be changed the remainder of the season.

One other gimmick is this: During the period of the first three scheduled games, a player may play with another team, but after the third game, he must stick with the Rainbow league team or be declared ineligible. . . . The lone exception is American Legion junior baseball. . . . Officers of the 1949 Rainbow wheel are George Brown, Trenary, president; E. L. Miller, Gwinn, vice-president; and Mathison, secretary-treasurer. . . . A league statistician will be appointed later.

TRI-COUNTY LEAGUE—Gloom hangs heavy over Ford River this week. . . . Its bid for entry into the Tri-County Baseball league was voted down, as was Daggett's and Cornell's, in favor of Stephenson, which replaces Loretto. . . . Others in the 10-team league are Bark River, defending champion, Norway, Vulcan, Wilson, Felch, Foster City, Hermansville, Powers - Spalding and Perronville.

Tom Bartoszek, Perronville secretary-treasurer, reports that the rumored merger of Felch-Foster City and Loretto-Vulcan-Norway did not materialize. Loretto has withdrawn because of lack of player talent. . . . League competition will get underway Sunday, May 8. . . . In addition to Bartoszek, other league officers are Bill Radue, Hermansville, president, and Russ Simmons, Bark River, vice president. . . . Rainbow and Tri-County league schedules are in the making.

CUFF NOTES—Here's a good one for Avery "One hundred per cent simon pure" Brundage to tussle with: "Can a horse who accepts cash prizes be classified as a professional if the money is turned into oats?"

That should keep Brundage busy until the 1952 Olympics are underway in Helsinki.

Frank House, the Detroit Tiger $70,000 rookie, will make his debut with Flint against Grand Rapids in the Central league Wednesday night. . . . Would that make Flint's chances to repeat as champion as big as a house?

Ben F. VanAlstyne, former head basketball coach at Michigan State, keeps in touch with the coaching game as head golf coach of the Spartans.

'Y' Quint Has City Pin Lead

By Ralph Bernstein
Philadelphia, April 25 (AP)—Richie Ashburn has taken his father's advice and is swinging for distance.

As a result, the 22-year-old kid who led both major leagues in stolen bases last year won a ball game from the Brooklyn Dodgers for the Philadelphia Phillies yesterday.

The tawny haired speedster stepped up in the seventh inning with a mate aboard, the score tied 4-4, and slammed a Carl Erskine pitch over the high right field wall of Shibe park to win the ball game. It was the first Phillies' win over Brooklyn at home in their last eight meetings.

Too, it was the first homer Ashburn ever hit out of a major league ball park. He hit two round trippers last season but both were inside-the-park jobs.

Richie hit .333 in 1948 to trail only Stan Musial, National league batting champion, in the final averages.

While the performance was good enough to win Ashburn the Sporting News nomination as "rookie of the year," it didn't set too well with Pop Ashburn.

So, when the Phillies reported to their Clearwater, Fla., training camp, Pop took Sonny aside and informed him of the facts of baseball life.

"Kid, they don't pay off in this game for bunts and beating out infield hits. You have to drive in runs and hit the long ball. You'll help both yourself and the club."

Yesterday was the payoff for both Richie and his dad.

When the Tilden, Neb., outfielder parked that ball over the wall, the biggest smile in the ball park didn't belong to Richie. His teammates or any of the 30,000 fans.

It was on the face of a Shibe park gatekeeper—Pop Ashburn. And the remark that came to his lips may be trite, but he was glad he said it—"that's my boy."

This was determined at the final organization meeting in Gladstone yesterday afternoon. . . . Each team will play a home and home series with every other team in the league, 14 games in all, and a modified Shaughnessy playoffs will be played upon completion of the schedule. . . . The first and third and second and fourth place teams will play a single-game sudden death semifinals, and the finals will be best-of-three.

Failure to find a manager knocked the Escanaba Bears out of the Rainbow league. . . . Pitcher Jack Beck says he had pulled up. . . . In fact, the trend appeared to be toward baseball instead of softball, but no one wanted to take over the job of managing the Bears.

Much New Talent Found In American Women's Swim Test

Daytona Beach, Fla., April 25 (AP)—The top women swimmers in the United States today are a bunch of youngsters who make the Olympic picture look pretty bright for 1952.

Only one individual champion clung to her title in the three day AAU National Women's meet which ended yesterday.

Marge Hulton, 19 year old Philadelphia, was the most surprising of the newcomers. Representing Brighton Hotel Swim Club of Atlantic City, N. J., and making her first appearance in the Nationalals, Miss Hulton won the 100-yard breast stroke.

But Barbara Jensen, also 19, of San Francisco, was the big star moving over the horizon. She won both the 200-yard backstroke and 300-yard individual medley. Besides that Miss Jensen placed second in the 100-yard backstroke and third in the 220-yard free style.

She was the biggest point-getter of the meet with 15.

Maureen O'Brien of Newark (N.J.) A. C., brimful of personality and speed, topped the 100-yard backstroke.

Two other first-time champs are Jackie Lavine, 19, of Chicago's town club, in the 100-yard free style; and Joan Mallory, 18, of San Francisco's Crystal Plunge, in the 440-yard free style.

Brenda Helser, 23, and Nancy Merkl Lee, 22, both veterans and members of the United States Olympic team last year, came back to grab titles they once held.

The lone successful defender of her championship was 18-year-old Zoe Ann Olsen of Athens, A. C., Oakland, Calif. She held onto the three-meter diving title and swept the field by regaining the one-meter crown.

Lawrence, Kans.—Don Gehrmann of Wisconsin equalled the meet record of 4:10.1 in winning the Glenn Cunningham mile at the Kansas relays.

Provo, Utah—Lloyd LaBeach of the Panama Olympic team equalled the world record of 20.3 seconds in winning the 220 yard dash at the Brigham Young relays.

Miscellaneous
Houston, Tex.—Ted Schroeder of La Crescenta, Calif., defeated Billy Talbert of Wilmington, Del., to win the River Oaks Tennis championship.

Los Angeles—Argentina defeated the United States, 11-6, in the third and deciding match of their International Polo series.

Daytona Beach, Fla.—Zoe Ann Olsen won the three meter diving championship in the National AAU Women's Indoor Swimming meet.

Golf
Pinehurst, N. C.—Frank Strahan defeated Harvey Ward, 2 and 1, in the 36 hole final of the North and South Amateur Golf tournament. Ward defeated Strahan last year.

Baseball
St. Paul Clings To AA Baseball Lead As Brewers Quit Cellar

By the Associated Press
St. Paul clung to the American Association lead with a perfect record of four victories today, but most of the plaudits were for a pair of rival rookie pitchers and a freshman slugger.

Paul Hinrichs of Kansas City, the $50,000 "bonus" twirler signed by the New York Yankees, redeemed himself yesterday. After being knocked out in the first inning of his debut last week by a six-run Indianapolis plunger, young Hinrichs scattered three hits to whip Toledo 14-0. His mates relieved the pressure by backing him up with a 17-hit attack led by Joe Muffoletto with four for five.

Toledo took the seven-inning nightcap behind another powerful mound job by a rookie, Rah Herbert, 19-year-old Detroit had making his first start in organized baseball, held the Blues to a pair of singles and drove on one run with a single his first time up.

At Columbus, Minneapolis made a clean sweep of a three game set by trouncing the flock 9-3 and 7-3.

St. Paul downed Louisville 3-1 as Mel Himes spaced nine hits. The second game, scheduled for seven innings, was called after one extra frame with the score knotted 3-3.

Milwaukee climbed out of the cellar with a double victory over Indianapolis, 4-0 and 6-5.

Lenczyk Wants to Follow Stranahan's Lead in North-South

Pinehurst, N. C., April 25 (AP)—Following the lead of Frank Stranahan, National Champion Grace Lenczyk hopes to succeed in the 47th Women's North and South Amateur Golf Tournament where a year ago she failed.

Last April both were beaten in the North and South finals. Stranahan lost to Harvie Ward of Tarboro, N. C., and Miss Lenczyk to Louise Suggs of Atlanta.

Stranahan evened his score with Ward Saturday. He beat the University of North Carolina Junior, 2 and 1, in the finals of the men's 49th annual event.

With Miss Suggs now a professional, Miss Lenczyk has been installed the favorite to win the women's 47th event

GOV'T HOUSING NOT SOLUTION

Babson Advocates More Factory-Built Homes

By ROGER W. BABSON
Babson Park, Mass.—Government building of "millions" of new homes by local carpenters and bricklayers, is not the solution of the housing problem. In fact, such a forced program would cause both labor and material costs to go even higher, and hence further check private building. The real solution lies with good factory built houses.

The answer is two-fold: (1) Local labor leaders are responsible for the high costs and poor quality of new houses by limiting the hours of work and the amount of work done. (2) The public is responsible for thinking that every family must have a custom-made house built by local labor.

Labor leaders and building codes have been instrumental in making new houses expensive. These codes make the building of a prefabricated house, with electric wires and plumbing pipes all installed, impossible. These cannot be inspected by local politicians, as they are hidden in the cement studs. This prevents the erection of factory-built houses which are our only hope.

Cellars And Inspectors
The original purpose of a cellar was to serve as a place to keep vegetables, fruits, cider, etc. free from freezing during the cold winter. Then, when coal stoves began to be installed, the cellar was used to store wood and coal. Now, with oil and gas heating, these cellars are no longer of use. $1,500 can be saved by forgetting them. $2,500 more can be saved by the use of modern building codes, and reasonable building inspectors.

At last, building inspectors and old-fashioned codes have run afoul of the big shots of the labor movement. Hence, for the first time I see a real chance of John Q. Public getting a better house for less money. This is a most important event and has great possibilities.

Here is what Walter P. Reuther, President of the United Auto Workers, said in Detroit, February 11: "The housing industry is the most antiquated in the country. It is not able to provide the necessary housing to meet the demands of the 500,000 new families created annually. The answer to the whole problem is mass production and use of the men and ideas which carried the country through the war."

"We have the know-how to split atoms and make a plane which can go 600 miles per hour, but that know-how never has been applied to housing. I propose the establishment of a National Authority to handle conversion of certain idle airplane plants to make prefabricated houses, and at the same time keep personnel trained in aircraft production. Construction labor would not suffer from the mass production. Instead, it would be relieved of the fear of seasonal unemployment."

Houses Vs. Automobiles
Mr. Reuther's statement especially interests me because of my connection with the automobile industry. I have always claimed that the automobile engineers and manufacturers hold the key to the solution of the housing problem. The heretofore prevalent idea that each family must build a different house is crazy. This is one reason why bricklayers, carpenters, electricians, and painters have us by the throat.

Of course, houses should not all be alike any more than are automobiles. Houses should be different sizes, differently arranged, and different colors; but so are automobiles. I am told that over one hundred different automobile models are on the market today in twelve different colors. Certainly, we all should be able to select a house which suits us from one hundred different designs in twelve colors.

Carpenters Need Not Worry
There still will be plenty of repair work and remodeling to keep local carpenters and painters busy. Therefore, to have Mr. Reuther, the president of one of our most powerful labor unions, come out in favor of factory built homes is a tremendous event. If he will fight for this program, as he fought for others, the housing problem will soon be solved.

Weather Favorable For Spring Farming In Most Of Nation

Chicago, April 25. (AP)—The weather over most of the nation today was favorable for spring farming operations.

There was some heavy rainfall in Texas and lighter thunder showers in scattered areas of the northern plains states but elsewhere skies generally were clear and temperatures mild. Temperatures dipped to around freezing or slightly below in some sections to the Great Lakes region, not much under normal for these areas, the weather bureau said.

The heaviest Texas rainfall was at Laredo where it measured 2.26 inches. Austin had 1.36 inches and Del Rio 1.44.

Low temperatures included 26 degrees at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., 28 at Duluth, Minn., and 32 at Portland, Maine.

Willard Maynard Seriously Hurt In Unexplained Mishap

Willard Maynard, 34, of 522 North 19th street, Escanaba, is being treated in St. Francis hospital for serious injuries believed to have been suffered in an accident on county road 517 between Wells and US-41 about midnight last night.

Investigating officers said details of the incident have not been determined because Maynard's general condition did not permit him to give a coherent account of what happened. His condition was described by the attending physician as "not too good."

Questioned at noon by the state police, Maynard said he "passed out" and did not remember exactly what happened to him except that he thought he was "beat up." There was some mention that a sum of money had been taken from him, but this could not be determined definitely, police said.

The state police and sheriff's department were asked to investigate the possibility of "foul play" in connection with the injury. He was picked up at 522 North 19th street by ambulance at about 4:30 this morning and taken to St. Francis hospital. It is not known exactly what happened between midnight and 4:30.

Investigating officers are at a loss as yet to explain how Maynard got to his home from county road 517 or exactly how he sustained his injuries.

Week End Accidents Kill 13 In Michigan

(By The Associated Press)
A variety of accidents took the lives of at least 13 Michigan residents during the weekend.

Two Hubbardston youths were killed early Sunday when their car swerved off a bridge into a pond near their Clinton county homes. In Detroit traffic accidents, a youth and an elderly man lost their lives.

Two other Detroit men were killed in Toledo in an automobile-train crash. Three men, one still unidentified, were drowned in the Detroit river during Saturday's windstorm.

A mother and her 18-month-old son perished in a fire at their home in Branch, in Lake county. A fire at Detroit caused the death of a 34-year-old father of eight children.

A two-year-old Detroit boy choked to death on an olive pit.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, April 25 (AP)—Wheat and corn overcame some early setbacks on the Board of Trade today. After dropping below the previous close, they reversed their trend and pushed ahead for small gains.

Cats again encountered some fairly heavy selling. The May contract was down more than a cent at times. In contrast July and December oats showed fairly good gains. Some of the selling in oats was believed to be coming from the east, and presumably represented liquidation of speculative holdings.

What near the end of the first hour was 1-8 to 5-8 cent higher, May $2.23 1/2; corn was 1/2 to 3/8 higher, May $1.94 1/2, and oats were 5-8 lower to one cent higher, May 61 1/2. Soybeans were 1/4 to 1/2 cent higher, May $2.25 1/2.

Drys Map Campaign Against Liquor At Lansing Convention

Lansing, April 25. (AP)—Michigan dries gathered at the second annual convention of the Michigan Temperance Foundation here today to map a fight against liquor sales in the state.

In attendance were representatives of church groups, the Grange, the W. C. T. U., Parent-Teachers organizations and representatives of the Prohibition party.

E. C. Prettyman, executive secretary, said the organization would concentrate on planning for dry legislation to be presented to the next session of the legislature. "There have been so many bills backed by the liquor interests in the legislature this year that we have been mainly on the defensive," Prettyman said.

New York Girl, 27, On Trial As Spy For Russian Agent

Washington, April 25. (AP)—Judith Coplon goes on trial today on one of the two indictments voted against her after her arrest while keeping an alleged rendezvous with a Russian.

Miss Coplon is a 27-year-old former justice department employee, an honor graduate of Barnard college. She is accused of copying and removing secret documents "with intent and reason to believe the information was to be used to the injury of the United States and to the advantage of a foreign nation."

The petite brunette also is under indictment in New York. She faces trial there along with Valentine A. Gubitchev, 32, suspended Soviet employee of the United Nations, on espionage conspiracy charges.

Steamer Hill Goes Aground Near Soo

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 25. (AP)—The steamer L. W. Hill of the National Steel corporation, was aground today in St. Mary's river near the Sault Country club.

The Hill, loaded with a cargo of ore for Detroit, went aground about 3:25 a. m. today on the east side of the channel, just above Little Rapids cut, according to the Sault Coast Guard base.

The Great Lakes Towing Co. was preparing its lighter, the T. F. Newman, to remove some of the cargo from the Hill. This will make it easier for the big tug Favorite, which is expected to attempt to free the vessel.

Sault Coast Guard base reported the river channel is clear for both upbound and downbound traffic in St. Mary's. The Hill is grounded, technically, within the city limits of Sault Ste. Marie.

British Communist Leader Is Heckled

Pollitt Flees From Ire
Of Plymouth Crowd

By CARTER L. DAVIDSON
Plymouth, England, April 25. (AP)—Britain's top Communist came to this naval port last night and ran into a menacing crowd of 3,000 that smashed doors, threw chairs, and besieged him in a hall for almost four hours.

Harry Pollitt, secretary-general of the British Communist party, caught the full force of Plymouth's wrath at the loss of 43 British sailors aboard four vessels that came under Chinese Red fire in the Yangtze. Three of the craft were registered at this channel city.

Some 300 police kept the crowd—including many sailors and women reserves (Wrens)—at bay around the old Corn Exchange auditorium where he tried to speak. He finally slipped out a basement window and down an alley to safety. Pollitt caught a sleeper back to London.

The Communist leader had come to this area to speak for Communist candidates in the approaching local elections.

Friday night at Dartmouth—home of the Royal Naval college—he had to dodge eggs and fruit and take refuge for almost five and one half hours in a friend's house.

Saturday night in Dartington Parish, Totnes, he was heckled and heard shouts of "put a rope around him."

Slaying of Opera Tenor In Atlanta Has Police Baffled

Atlanta, April 25. (AP)—Atlanta police, investigating the slaying of Metropolitan Opera tenor John Garris, reported they are just as baffled today as they were Thursday when his body was found.

Two men have been arrested in the case. Neither, however, has been connected definitely with the slaying.

Both arrests resulted from an investigation centering around a .38-caliber Belgian-made automatic pistol—the same caliber which fired the death bullet.

But the FBI in Washington reported yesterday it was unable to determine whether the fatal bullet was fired from the pistol.

Atlanta Police Chief Herbert Jenkins said the FBI's report leaves the slaying as much a mystery as ever.

Memorial services for the slain tenor were held in Dallas, Tex., yesterday. About 300 members of the touring Metropolitan Opera company attended.

Union Asks State Inquiry Of Fracas At Gwinn Factory

Negaunee, Mich., April 25. (AP)—An immediate state investigation of violence at the Gwinn plant of the H. W. Gossard Ladies Garment Co. was sought today by the AFL International Ladies Garment Workers Union.

Three pickets were injured seriously last Wednesday when a car struck them as they were patrolling. The alleged driver of the car, Mrs. Katherine A. Laveau, is awaiting examination May 3 on a charge of felonious assault.

Strikers met here last night and asked Gov. G. Mennen Williams for an inquiry into the incident.

Mayors Alvin C. Hampton of Negaunee and Marcus Willey of Ishpeming supported the strikers.

Kashing, the vital rail junction 53 miles southwest of Shanghai, apparently had not been touched by the Reds. Trains from Hangchow through there arrived this morning and tonight. Passengers said Kashing was quiet and there was no indication the Reds were near the city, which controls the Shanghai-Hangchow railway.

Refugees Big Problem

The refugee situation in Shanghai is growing serious. Late today roads leading into the city from the west contained lines of rain sodden peasants. Most of them had only enough food for a few meals. The refugees said they were coming to the city because the soldiers always fought in the country but never in the cities.
